

Minor in Translation Studies Worksheet

The Minor in Translation Studies is a 4-course (16-credit) minor offered jointly through Global Liberal Studies and the Department of Comparative Literature. Courses may be taken in NYC and/or at one of the Global Academic Centers. One course may be double-counted for the minor.

Introductory course (4 credits): Students will take one of two options for the introductory course, EITHER in Global Liberal Studies OR the Department of Comparative Literature.

Global Liberal Studies:

Global Topics: Translation across the Disciplines explores a range of contexts and practices that have informed translation studies scholarship. To be offered annually in the fall semester.

Comparative Literature:

Translation Theory: Comparative Approaches and Case Studies introduces students to the key theoretical debates that have shaped the field of translation studies. To be offered next in Spring 2024.

One (1) Elective GLS or Comparative Literature course focusing on translation theory and/or practice (4 credits): Students will take at least one course from among the below options. Not all courses are offered each semester.
